CONSTRUCTION LAWYER BLACK & VEATCH SURREY

As a result of continued business growth, Black & Veatch are looking to recruit a construction lawyer to support its water management business. The role will be covering a variety of contentious and non-contentious issues such as reviewing and negotiating contracts, applying general legal principles to a variety of situations and being able to identify risks and advise on risk management.

To succeed in this role, you will have a minimum of two years' PQE gained as a construction lawyer within private practice or an in-house role. It is essential that you are able to demonstrate your commercial awareness and experience and have the ability to be creative in finding 'win-win' solutions. You must be able to demonstrate excellent communication skills and the ability to be in tune with your colleagues at all levels, and most importantly Black & Veatch clients.

Candidates will be selected on the basis of their relevant skills and experience. Where we have stated a minimum or maximum level of qualification, candidates who wish to apply are welcome to do so and will be considered on an equal basis where they can demonstrate equivalent levels of skills and experience.
